You may resolve to get into better shape, as millions vow to do each year. Perhaps you have a more abstract goal, like spiritual fulfillment. Or maybe you want to write that novel you've been dreaming up. The only limit to what you attempt is your imagination and, of course, your resolve.

As the trope then goes, most people get a few weeks into the new year and they forget all about their resolutions. Their determination to improve is worn down by the tedium of life. They skip a few workout days, forget to practice their creative disciplines, and their fantasies die. In our movement, it is often no different, as too many frens end up bingeing visual goyslop on Netflix instead of working on a project that might help us defeat our enemies.

Still, there are those who follow through, and they are deserving of the highest praise. If you'd like to join them, all you have to do is maintain your resolve. Don't allow your discipline to slip. Pick a worthy goal that will improve things for yourself, your family, and your race. Form silent obligations to those who will benefit. Remind yourself every day that your failure to execute means a failure to live up to those obligations. If you fail, you're letting down every other fren in the movement. You're also letting down your ancestors, who went through their own personal struggles to ensure your existence. Had they failed, you simply wouldn't be. Our every opportunity is owed to those who came before us.

Given these tremendous gifts – the gifts of existence and opportunity – one must still pick a worthy resolution. It's also more than a matter of picking the right thing—you've got to know why it's the right thing. Even those who choose an admirable goal – like reaching a high level of physical fitness – might be doing it for the wrong reasons.

If your reason to improve your fitness is superficial (you may think it will help you get laid, or feel better about yourself), then you are more likely to fail. Superficial motivations are easily changed and often satisfied accidentally (to continue our examples: you may find a girlfriend and lose your romantic/sexual motivations, or you might otherwise develop higher self-esteem unexpectedly). There's nothing holding you to your goals at that point, as your heart was in the wrong place from the start!

You should want to be fitter, healthier, and stronger. Not out of vanity or lust, but so that you can protect friends who are still too weak to fight. You should be capable of self-defense and the defense of others, with or without a weapon. If you're not, you should start working towards that. If you're already fit and strong, consider resolving to train several friends to become stronger—spread your knowledge and skills to those who are struggling.

Whatever your resolution is, you must move forward with an iron will. There will be days wherein you suffer and fail, but those must be ignored. Each morning is a new opportunity to accomplish your goals, and failure is a perpetual state that you must choose to inhabit.

Break your year-end goal into measurable pieces. What should be done by March? By June? What skills will you need to practice? How must your schedule look for all of it to be feasible? What complications might arise? Put real effort into answering these questions. This “chunking” method allows you to track yourself and correct mistakes before they lead to ultimate failure by year’s end!

Think of it like climbing a ladder: you don't do it all at once. You do it a rung at a time. Sometimes you're focused on moving upwards, other times you're just trying not to fall off. Hold on tight and keep climbing!

No movement has ever succeeded due to the laziness or demoralization of their members. You must strengthen your will into an all encompassing drive. You must radiate love for your folk and for friends who are struggling alongside you. You must become the beacon in the storm that you yourself have always sought out. Let nothing stop you. Ignore hunger, pain, pleasure, and hate—they're all in your mind. Once developed, your iron will can overcome even the most brutal of psychic wounds. It is this will – developed singularly within us, yet collectively among us – that will sweep us into power.

This issue of FREN-Z was curated to support your resolutions and personal development goals. We have ventured to provide inspiration regarding several fields that frens are often interested in—personal fitness, art, propaganda, and religion. Please do your best to fulfill whatever you know your role(s) to be. We are doing our best to fulfill ours. Together, we will win.

FITNESS: INSIDE AND OUT

You may have heard about how slaves of days past were forbidden to exercise, lest they gain enough strength to fight back. This is often juxtaposed with the modern push towards weakness and emasculation. While it's humorous at first, you could reasonably argue that dopamine addicted NPCs are a form of slave.

Many struggle to go a full day without television, video games, or pornography—the most potent forms of super stimuli. They work their jobs, often for laughable wages, to earn enough money to buy garbage food – goyslop – that's slowly killing them. They spend the rest of their income on the latest video games and films, often written by far-left degenerates who clumsily insert their pathetic ideologies at every turn—yet another form of goyslop. They just barely make rent and then they feel as though, somehow, others are to blame for their circumstances.

If you suggested to these people that they should cut out these wasteful “hobbies” (really, can you call sitting in front of a screen and watching propaganda a hobby?), most would scoff at you. With unearned smugness, they might extol the virtues of their favorite goyslop. They'll readily defend even the most degenerated behaviors, such as extreme porn consumption, if they're engaging in it themselves. The idea of working out a few times a week, eating clean, and purging the goyslop, all terrifies them. They don't understand why it scares them because they don't realize that it's all part of a complex dopamine addiction, but they don't want to hear that either.

The unwillingness to improve ones character is almost as bad as being physically unfit. If a person was in excellent physical shape – well defined muscles, little body fat, and so on – they could still be internally unfit. The person inside that fit body could be a degenerate who would sell out their own mother for hard drugs. Being “fit” is more than just being strong or attractive.

Ask yourself: Am I fit for my role? Am I an honorable person? Do I have the strength to do what is necessary, regardless of the circumstances?

Our movement must strive towards excellence and fitness—not just of body, but of mind. We hope to help you find the motivation to attain peak fitness. If not for yourself, do it for your folk and their future!

"It is a disgrace to grow old through sheer carelessness before seeing what manner of man you may become by developing your bodily strength and beauty to their highest limit. But you cannot see that, if you are careless; for it will not come of its own accord."

– Socrates, as quoted by his student Xenophon in Memorabilia (Book III, verse 7.8), first published circa 371 BC.

YOU MUST HAVE CHARACTER TO WALK THE PATH

Excerpted from Path of Gods: Handbook For The 21st Century Fascist by Wewelsburg Archives.

The entire book can be found, for free, on the Frens Library:

One's Character is their true inner nature. Fascism prizes the great, strong, firm character over the weak and soft, for that is the character that can uphold our values and honor Truth. One's intelligence comes second, for a person of great character may not be the smartest, but he will stand taller than the person of weak character, who is more intelligent. In fact, the latter is the perfect description of the intellectual, of the modern man in general.

The person of weak character desperately needs some modicum of intelligence to have the skills for rationalizing why his lack of will power (a trait of a strong character) doesn't matter or should not be taken into account. It is these people who will try to intellectually justify degeneracy – foremost their own, and then that of others, to secure their own standing. "Faggotry is not a problem" is something only a faggot or a smart idiot will say, ignoring that faggotry is often the consequence of a small and weak character—as is the case for all degeneracy.

A simple and humble man may be far more virtuous than the intellectual, and thus we do not prize intellect itself, and would not offend said man for not being the smartest. "Smart" and "dumb" do not figure in our worldview as substitutes for "good" and "bad," nor do they rank as the all-defining human traits—only Character can fulfill that task. Thus, we also do not recognize the "smart" jobs as the superior ones. Instead, we recognize the effort of the man fulfilling the task he was meant for, as per his Character:

"Each has his task in the community, given to him according to his gifts. Never do all have the same task, but rather each his own. His task gives him a place in the community, if he fulfills it completely, he wins the esteem of the others. He is happy, even if his task is not large in the overall scheme of things."

"A worker on the street can stand higher in the ranks than a government minister if he has better done his duty."

— From Faith and Action, by Helmut Stellrecht, first published in 1938

In reality, intelligence is a tool, and like any tool it can be wielded for good or ill, and what determines one's use of that tool is, again, Character. The small man will use intellect to justify his shortcomings and to secure his petty interests, to protect his own hide and swindle others. Thus intellect serves to create ideas like equality and communism. A great man will use intellect in service to a higher task that he seeks to realize, in service to a greater principle that dictates a necessity, rather than a personal whim. Thus, intellect serves to create the Organic State.

"As our spiritual experience shows, above the outer logic of reason, conditioned by the senses, rises an internal logic of fate. And we perceive it not by the brain, but by blood which uses the brain for its own goals or in spite of it. The arguments of blood are not convincing, they are compulsory. Its goals are not logical constructs but are the consequence of necessity. Its main organ is the heart. And that which in relation to the brain we call reason, in relation to the heart we call character."

— From "Character," by Ernst Jünger, as first published in Die Standarte, May 13th 1926

No matter whom you look at in the Pantheon of Fascist champions, you cannot in all honesty declare any of them "intellectuals," rather you see men of great Character who also possessed great intellect, and not necessarily academic smarts, but worldly knowledge of how the world around them operates. That intellect was subservient to their goals and their character, establishing them foremost as Men of Action, rather than men of pen and paper. Even well educated people like William Luther Pierce spoke without pretense of intellectual superiority, and the content of their speeches was always that of Action, as opposed to the kind of speaking one might hear during various "think tank" get-togethers.

These people spoke plainly but they spoke of things of great magnitude, something that is impossible for an intellectual, for his instinct drives him towards either analyzing and dismantling and picking away at things until there is nothing left; or towards making mountains out of molehills as they proceed to over-intellectualize the most basic of things. Intellect left to its own devices is a tool for tearing at the very fabric of reality or satisfying one's own ego, whereas the intellect subservient to great character is a creative force that helps us return closer to the Truth.

These types think themselves to be the next social elite, whereupon they can occupy stuffy cabinets with leather chairs and sip wine whilst stroking each other's egos over meaningless yammering coated in complex wording. Well let them dream. Reality of the matter is, however, that history shall repeat itself once again, as these intellectuals will find themselves trampled underneath the jackboots of "low brow" "thugs" (the favored insult towards fascists in the past, all of them, from Hitler and Mussolini to Sir Oswald Mosley and Rockwell, to Codreanu, Italo Balbo, Joseph Tommasi and etc.) – the very ones they thought would be doing their bidding.

And from the ranks of those "thugs" the new elite will come forth.

Music is a thing that can easily sway minds. Since the sixties, it has been subverted by the hippies, commies, and leftist elites. It has become degenerate, with gangster rap, trap, hip hop, etc., being the vanguard of this change. We all know who funded it.

If we think back to previous decades' music, such as in the fifties and thirties, songs generally had a much more positive and traditional atmosphere—even popular songs for the masses. Take, for example, the song "Come Fly With Me" by Frank Sinatra. It's a happy, romantic song about joining the jet-set. The lyrics are about enjoyment, wonder, and becoming more world-wise by visiting far off locations and bars with your loved one.

If we look at the original album art, it is a beautiful airport scene with a well-dressed traditional man, Frank himself, beckoning to his lover (though, he could also be interpreted as beckoning to the listener) to board a Lockheed Constellation.

Now, let's examine average contemporary release in the rap, trap, or hip hop genres. Their album covers often feature a naked or otherwise sexualized woman. Other times were shown a visual of someone brandishing a gun. The latter albums are likely to feature the artist shouting about how he is the greatest gunman in "the hood," all while threatening his fellow "musicians" with violence for some perceived slight. Regardless of the cover art, these genres have a tendency to glorify hard drug use, sleeping around, and other degenerated behaviors.

Is this really what we want our children to listen to?

Thankfully, there are some more positive modern genres to turn to, such as neofolk, synthwave, and retrowave.

If the mood strikes me for some traditional music that eschews the degenerate modern style, I usually turn to either neofolk or synthwave. Both of these genres are, in my opinion, the best representation of our traditional European zeitgeist, but in different ways.

Neofolk is grounded in our culture. For example, the German band Forseti uses German "Romantic Era" poetry in its lyrics. The genre stalwart Douglas Pierce, of the band Death In June, has a particular appreciation for the likes of Ernst Rohm and SS Uniforms. Pierce has admitted in interviews that he would rather the people that come to his gigs be "racially aware."

Rome is another good neofolk band, led by Jerome Reuter. Reuter's music is often about history. He picks a different subject with each album. He has said in interviews that he is "more left wing" and he's released songs to that effect, such as his recent piece "Yellow and Blue." I personally feel that he is a more traditional leftist like those of the 1800's, rather than a modern 21st century soyboy. He has made songs about such topics as the blitzkrieg drive east, and the feelings of the white Rhodesians.

Synthywave, to put bluntly, is not a genre of endless pointlessly nostalgic for the good old days of the eighties. Instead, it's a deeper expression of the inner need for a brighter future. In the eighties, that hope revolved around the advent of the computer and the space shuttle, but tempered by the nagging thought in the back of most people's minds that – someday soon – they could be hunkered down in their cellar, eating cold spam from the can, as fallout broadcasts blare from their radio following a nuclear strike. Perhaps they felt they had to live their lives to the fullest, and that really shows through in synthywave.

One of my favorite songs in the synthwave genre is The Midnight's "AOL." It's uniquely applicable to our situation. The lyrics describe the early internet and the miraculousness of being able to (almost) instantly communicate with someone many miles away, with a simple wish of love and connection.

Much better than the top forty, eh?

We need to strategically push our values and change our culture for the better. I feel we should aim to be normic friendly with our optics when making music, and music videos. We could, perhaps, make "normal" songs to establish ourselves in the industry. Then, once established, release historical concept albums asking "What If?" These albums could revolve around our ideology. Those in control of mainstream music distribution won't be happy with this, but if we're persuasive and talented we can still attain widespread releases, even if we have to do so ourselves. The latter would become significantly easier if we attain a following before revealing our true artistic intent. With a bit of help from like minded propagandists, you could make music videos or albums that promote the traditional values that we all want—like ending mass immigration, stopping terrorism, enacting freer gun laws, and strengthening free speech laws.

Also, when it comes time to film the music videos, I think I'd look damn fine in an SS uniform.

This tactic of infiltration has been used by the leftists in many fields, from education to government, and I'm sure we could turn it against them if we play our cards right. It might take a long time, but it's better than ranting about it at home and not getting anything productive done.

by George Lincoln Rockwell

IF EACH OF THE MEN in the fable about the blind men and the elephant were required to construct a model of an elephant, there would be three very different models. The blind man who felt only the tail would build a model as he described an elephant in the fable — as “a sort of rope.” The blind man who felt the leg and said an elephant was like a tree would produce a tree-like “elephant,” while the man who felt only the trunk would construct his “elephant” like a snake.

Most men I have met in politics consider themselves automatically experts in the field of propaganda. But almost all of them make the same type of basic error in their propaganda as did the blind men in describing and reconstructing an elephant; both suffer from insufficient experience with the subject. A right-wing businessman, when he gets sick, doesn't try to doctor himself, nor does he try to practice law himself, nor does he even try to do his own advertising. He hires professional experts to do these highly technical jobs for him. But when that same right-wing businessman wants to move the people of a whole nation to an understanding of our national peril, he doesn't hesitate to spend relatively huge sums trying to write and produce his own amateur propaganda. In almost every case he produces propaganda which he likes, completely forgetting in his political excitement that the art of propaganda (and advertising) is not in producing that which one likes and admires one's self, but that which will produce the effect desired — sales in the case of advertising and political conviction in the case of propaganda. Because he is able to think, he presumes that his audience is also able to think — a completely unwarranted assumption. Because he himself is repelled by crudeness and exaggeration, he makes his pitch factual, logical, and usually subtle. In addition to this foolishness, he also forgets that the average man in the street is emotionally assaulted during all his waking hours by advertising brilliantly designed by experts to capture attention through the most powerful kind of psychological impact. The average right wing piece, crowded onto a page, verbose, and dull, is not only not able to win the attention of the average man amid all this competition, but positively repels him.

Even worse propaganda mistakes are made by both those at the top and those at the bottom of the right-wing intellectual spectrum. Because they can't read and understand "them big words," the Klan types are "agin'" anything other than the crudest and most brutal of approaches. "Hit 'em 'longside the ha'rd with a two-by-four" is the motto of these boys, and any attempt to produce anything else is likely to get you called a "Communist-Jew spy" or get you hit "longside the ha'rd" yourself. This type loves the American Nazi Party's "Boat Ticket to Africa" and the Stormtrooper, for instance, but rages that the Rockwell Report is too "long" and "dull."

At the other extreme is the Ph.D. right-winger who hurriedly claps his hand over his mouth and gulps in nausea when he shows him something like our all-time most popular propaganda piece, our "Boat Ticket to Africa," full of expressions such as "nigger-armpit stench" and the like. Because this refined gentleman prefers to read Spengler or Gobineau, he can't imagine that the ideas of these men might be gotten across to a semi-literate farmer better with a "boat ticket" than with a volume of Houston Stewart Chamberlain.

In the middle group are the Birch-type blind men who produce millions and millions of dollars worth of wasted propaganda; wasted because it is not designed to do the job they really want and need done, but is instead what they like to hear. These people have never yet stopped to reflect that in order to win they need not just the thinkers — the right-wingers, the bourgeoisie, rich folks, and the rest of the elite minority — but the vast masses of the people who support demagogues like Johnson, FDR, and Kennedy. Goldwater's catastrophe was the result of producing propaganda and campaigns designed to win thinkers instead of masses. The result was that twenty-seven million Goldwater thinkers were swamped at the polls by some forty-three million Johnson wishers and hopers, who can never, never, never be reached by "conservative" logic, facts, and boring, sissy tea parties.

The worst waste of money I have ever seen in the whole field of propaganda was the special Sunday supplement the Birch Society put out not so long ago in newspapers all over America. It cost as much as a quarter of a million dollars in some cities. Had it been designed to appeal to the mass, the "average man," the man who votes with his heart instead of his head, it could have been worth the millions it took to publish. But it was foolishly aimed at a relatively tiny minority. On the front cover, in full color, it showed a typical Birch Society meeting, in the home of a man obviously wealthy — in the kind of living room which would make the average, working-class, overalled American uncomfortable. The Birchers were sitting around sipping tea with their pinkies daintily extended, and the whole atmosphere was foreign, ridiculous, and even painful to the man in overalls — as America's millions of "ordinary Joes." There might have been some sense in printing that piece in Fortune. But to spend money to put that advertisement (which could reach only the rich and the sophisticated) in a mass medium, at the cost of a mass medium, was the kind of thoughtlessness which keeps the right wing powerless, eternally defeated, and discouraged.

Does this mean that the Birch Society's high-level appeal is a total waste? Should all their propaganda be like that of the Klan? An elephant is neither all leg nor all tail nor all trunk. A complete, whole elephant needs all of these parts to live. The Jews, masters of the art of propaganda that they are (unlike the right wing), have understood this fundamental truth and have organized their "pitch" to appeal to all levels.

For the kids and the primitives — for the “masses” — the Jews produce comic books and comic strips; crude,

It's time to talk about attitude, frens. Framing, too. We have some serious issues with shills and short-term thinkers poisoning things that should be victories for us. We could use many recent events as case studies - Tulsi Gabbard calling out anti-White racism, Kanye West (or, the rapper formerly known as Kanye, who has changed his name to Ye, which is what I'll call him from here on out) calling out jews—but the negative rhetoric here is mostly the same each time:

- >They're still controlled by jews. I don't care what they said.
- >OH, SO YOU THINK A NIGGER/WOMAN/ETC WILL SAVE YOU? PATHETIC!
- >Blacks/Women/etc. are our enemies, I don't want their help.
- >They're only doing this to stab us in the back later, or to sell something, etc.

And on, and on. Anyone who was pleased to see a (now former) billionaire go on television and name the jew was called into question by these people. Anyone who was pleased to hear a mainstream politician admit to the prevalence of anti-White racism/ideology was called into question by these people.

Perhaps Ye is only trying to sell t-shirts. Perhaps Gabbard just wants to get off of a sinking ship. Even if these criticisms are true (which, so far as I can see, they're probably not), these are still victories for us.

Whenever anything happens in the world, the jews spin it for their benefit. They'll take clear-cut events, question the minutia of something, add some speculation, package it up for consumption, and convince 10,000,000 people that their bullshit is the actual truth in the events they're discussing. This has been used to cause us massive harm. No one can deny this spin tactic, and it's widely reviled by even the most out-of-touch NPC. Mention media/news/corporate spin techniques and they'll agree with you about how they're dangerous. They don't realize jews are responsible, but they recognize the phenomenon. How could you not?

We need to spin things too.

Lets say that Ye isn't our ally and that he's grifting somehow or another. Set aside the facts that he had a shitload of money already; that he lost many millions of dollars by telling the truth; and that there are countless ways he could have sold t-shirts without pissing off the media, calling out the jews, and torching multiple high-influence social media accounts. Even if he was pure grift, without any real care for White lives or the malicious "Jewish mafia," as he's started calling it, we should be spinning his words/deeds to be as favorable for us as possible. Ye is enormously influential amongst blacks, but also amongst Gen-Y (millennials) and Gen-Z (zoomers) in general. His refusal to back down and his constant jew naming can, and should, be leveraged to redpill as many of the people within his sphere of influence as humanly possible. We should be going into overdrive to use this opportunity.

>But muh niggers, muh race war, muh pure Aryan struggle!

I've had "frens" post here, in response to me and others, unironically saying that they would rather lose the struggle against the jew than cooperate with blacks, Japanese, etc. This is patently retarded. Hitler had soldiers of every major racial group in his army, including blacks. He was respectful to these men, who fought and died for freedom from Jewish domination, even if he ultimately wanted them to return to their own homelands after the conflict was done. He did not turn down the help of able bodied men of other races, and he spoke positively of many cultures and races other than his own.

In short, if your standards of racial purity and association are so unreasonably high that Hitler would have tried to talk some sense into you, you're probably being unrealistic.

Maybe Hitler might have preferred, deep down inside, to fight his struggle with only pure Aryan supermen, but he didn't, and it doesn't take a genius to see why. It also doesn't take a genius to see that we shouldn't throw possible avenues of victory in the garbage because it requires basic cooperation with other groups. Our movement shouldn't be about our hate for all out-groups, but our love for our peoples.

Tell me, if your house was burning down would you insist that every firefighter be White? You'd rather see your wife and kids burn to death than accept non-White help? Of course not. That would be foolish. You love your wife more than you hate blacks, don't you? You should. You should love your family, your Aryan folk, and your culture more than you hate anything. If jew hate is stronger in your heart than Aryan love, you need to reevaluate things. Yes, jews deserve the hate they get, but we hate them for a reason. And that reason is their attempt to destroy our families, our culture, and our folk.

So here, as the jews burn our civilization down, should we really complain if blacks try to help us stand against these cultural arsonists?

Learn to spin every event, no matter what it is, into our own rhetorical victories. Everything that happens should be spun to our greatest benefit. Be unapologetic in your presentation of events and the facts as you see them. Don't "give the other side a fair view," because they won't ever give us that fair view!

Do you want to enforce ideological purity spiraling, or do you want to win and see your grandchildren live in a world free of kike subversion? Without the eternal jew to stoke racial conflict, it'll be much easier to separate into ethnic homelands. We need to accomplish the former - the removal of Jewish influence - to see the latter.

Every color has its place—an ethnic home for every race!

Heil Hitler!

"These things says the First and the Last, who became dead, and lived: I know your works, and the affliction, and the poverty; but you are rich. And I know the evil speaking of those saying themselves to be Jews, and they are not, but are a synagogue of Satan."

- Jesus Christ Revelation 2:8-9

For, brothers, you became imitators of the churches of God being in Judea in Christ Jesus, because you also suffered these things by your own fellow countrymen, as they also suffered from the Jews, who both killed the Lord Jesus and their own prophets, also driving us out, and not pleasing God, and being contrary to all men, hindering us from speaking to the nations in order that they be saved, to fill up their sins always. But the wrath has come on them to the uttermost.

“Did you bring slain beasts and sacrifices to Me [during your] forty years in the wilderness, O house of Israel? And you took up the tent of Moloch, and the star of your god Remphan, the figures which you made in order to worship them. Therefore, I will send you into exile beyond Babylon.”

"But now you seek to kill Me, a man who has spoken the truth to you, which I heard alongside of God. Abraham did not do this. You do the works of your father. [The Jews] said to Him, 'We were not born of fornication; we have one father, God.' Then Jesus said to them, 'If God were your Father, you would love Me, for I went forth and have come from God. For I have not come from Myself, but that One sent Me. Why do you not know My speech? It is because you are not able to hear My Word. You are of the Devil as father, and the lusts of your father you desire to do. That one was a murderer from the beginning, and he has not stood in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaks a lie, he speaks from his own, because he is a liar, and the father of it.'"

- Jesus Christ, in argument with a group of Jews, as quoted in John 8:40-44

ONE OF MANY ROADS TO HELL

The following is an excerpt from the Bhagavad Gita, a core holy book of Hinduism. More specifically, we've utilized a commentary on the Bhagavad Gita called the Gitartha-samgraha, written by Abhinavagupta circa 1000 AD, and translated into English by Boris Marjanovic. In these verses, Prince Arjuna warns of the danger inherent in destroying behavioral norms. He expresses concern over racial (caste) intermixture and the damage it does to one's family.

ORIGINAL COMMENTARY: In the following few verses, Arjuna indicates the beginning of the destruction of the traditional norms of behavior (*dharma*s), such as destruction of family, etc.

CHAPTER 1 VERSES 38-45

How could we be happy after killing our own relatives, O Madhava? Even if our relatives, with their minds clouded by greed, do not see anything wrong in the destruction of family and sin in the treachery of friends. How is it possible, O Janardana, that we do not know how to avoid this evil, although we can clearly understand the wrong in bringing destruction upon the family?

When the family is destroyed, the eternal family dharma disappears, and when the family dharma disappears adharma takes control over the entire family. And because of adharma dominating the family, O Krishna, the women of the family become corrupted.

When corruption of women takes place, O Vârsneya, intermixture of castes takes place. This intermixture leads to hell, for the family destroyers and the family itself. Their ancestors fall as well, deprived of offerings of pindodaka due to them. Through the wrongdoings done by the destroyers of the family that causes the intermixture of the castes, the eternal *dharma*s of caste and family become extinct.

We have heard, O Janârdana, that people whose family *dharma*s have been destroyed unavoidably need to live in hell.

MODERN SAMURAI

The following is transcribed from a lecture by Haku Zynkyoku entitled "The Origin of the 'Jews' Lies in the Previous Universe." It was originally recorded on March 31st, 2012. Haku Zynkyoku's analysis of the historical record may or may not be accurate, we're not the ones to say. Regardless, we agree with the broad sentiment expressed in this excerpt—we must rouse ourselves to action and resist the onslaught of degeneracy.

[T]he high places of all organizations are predominately controlled by the Judayan Jews, who are themselves evil spirits. And all the original religious works, not to mention the teachings of Christ, were stolen [by Jews]. ...

What the Jews fear the most is "Samurai." A Judayan Jew is someone who hides behind the curtains and pulls strings without ever revealing their true identities. Treachery is their forte. Samurai are the complete opposite of a Jew. When I say "Samurai," I'm not referring solely to the Japanese Samurai clans, but to those in all the nations of the world who are brave and courageous warriors. The wild western gun-slinging cowboys and the Americans who fought in the revolution to win their freedom can also be called Samurai. Obviously, there are also Samurai in Africa and other continents as well.

Therefore, an earthly operation is about to commence. That is, an operation to completely overturn the status of rule and to subjugate the Jews. In order for this operation to succeed, all the Samurai of the world have to rouse themselves to action. This is what the Jews fear the most.

"PROFESSIONAL" MEDIA CRITICS HATE YOU.

They don't know what you like and they don't care. They don't even think about it. Their real bosses are the people making the content they review, as multimedia companies fund the critics by purchasing advertisement space on their publications. It's a hilariously blatant conflict of interest and they think we're too stupid to notice. Why do you think the critic and audience scores never match? The job of a modern critic is to praise the content they've been paid to praise.

It doesn't have to be this way. You deserve straightforward information about the content you and your family consume. Get real reviews from real people, with aggregated information from mainstream sources for quick comparisons. See how "diverse" a film is at a glance, without reading about anyone's "Early Life." It's the best way to know if a film, show, or game is worth your time.
